Message from eBusiness 2005 Conference Chairman

The International Conference on eBusiness (eBusiness 2005) is the last of the three international conferences at Assumption University I have served on and am still serving as the chairman of the organizing committee in the year 2005. The first one was the Second International Conference on eLearning for Knowledge-based Society (eLearning 2005) held August 4-7, 2005. The second one was the International Conference on Computer and Industrial Management (eIndustry 2005) held October 29-30, 2005.

The eBusiness 2005 theme of “the Digital Lifestyle and the Road Ahead” is intended to encourage papers on all topics of interest in eBusiness, such as eBusiness Theory, eBusiness Practices, eBusiness Education, eBusiness Infrastructure and Applications, Trust and Security Management, and any other related topics.

In my capacity as the Conference Chairman, I would like to express my gratefulness to H.E. the Minister of Information and Communications Technology for his agreeing to chair the Opening Ceremony, and to the President Emeritus and the President of Assumption University for their allowing Assumption University to serve as the host for the Conference. The first of this series of conferences was hosted by Kasetsat University in the year 2002, the second by Thammasat University in 2003, the third by Chulalongkorn University in 2004, the fourth by Assumption University in 2005, and the fifth will be by King Mongkut’s University of Technology Thonburi in 2006.

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to all members of the Organizing Committee, especially Khun Don Sambandaraksa, Khun Rattanawan Rattakul, Dr. Metta Ongkasuwan, Khun Cheeptham Kumvisate, Dr. Santithorn Bunchua, and Khun Aumart Khunkitti. Special mention must be made of the speakers, the editors, and supporting staff as well as all other parties who have contributed to the Conference. We are grateful to Nokia the Gold Sponsor, Microsoft Thailand the Silver Sponsor, Oracle and Cisco for their ADs in the Proceedings, all the learned societies and Srisakdi Charmonman Foundation for supporting the Conference. We are sure that the Conference will be successful and beneficial to all concerned.

Prof. Dr. Srisakdi Charmonman
eBusiness 2005 Conference Chairman
